DRAWING

In the middle years drawings are now placed along a horizontal line; figures become clearer representative because of difference in size and dress but they are still symbols. Glimmerings of a plan began to appear; thus, trees are shown on each side of the road but colors do not necessarily confirm to that of nature or the man made environment. As has been emphasized earlier even 8 year old continue to use symbols of their own imagination to represent objects rather what they actually see, these drawing will reveal a wealth of colors and imagination and express the child's mind.
